Two Haysville librarians achieve Library Services Certificate

-by Shannon Roy Director of Local Library Development

Gee Gee Helm of Kingman was the first. Janice Sharp of Valley Center was the second. But the Haysville Public Library was the first to have two staff members celebrate their Library Services Certificate on the same evening.

Norma Johnson first started using the Haysville Public Library when she brought a grandson to storytime. After her husband's sudden and > tragic death, Norma began working for the Haysville Library. She has held a variety of positions. After the death of her friend and colleague Dorothy Goin, she also became the library's bookkeeper. "It has been 12 years and I still love it," Norma declared.

Norma speaks highly of both KPLACE and the Certificate Program. "I have met so many librarians and teachers and the college credits give you so much self-esteem. Rene has done an astounding job with the Certificate Program."

Norma is proud of herself and her one daughter, three sons and 14 grandchildren. A great-grandchild will appear in January. "They all live near me and I wouldn't have it any other way."

Betty Cattrell has been director of the Haysville Library since it was established in 1977. Before that she served as a school librarian and as a serials librarian at Boeing Aircraft Library. She moved the library into its present facility and is now planning another building program with her board. She is known not only for the quality of her library programs, but for the way she works to help her staff develop. Betty was a member of the first KPLACE Class in 1991. She also won the KLA Presidential Award in 2000.

Betty and her husband Melvin had four children and now have seven grandchildren and ten great-grandchildren. Betty reads "a lot" and is a quilter and a woodcarver. She is also active in her church and in civic and library organizations.

Betty added, "The quality of service that Kansas libraries give has improved with the KPLACE and ICE programs. They give the empowerment and confidence that many of us need."

Five board members and as many staff members watched with pride as Betty and Norma received their Certificates from program coordinators Rene Yaws and Jeremy Frank at the July board meeting. State Librarian Duane Johnson, South Central Training Coordinator Nancy Malone and KPLACE Coordinator Shannon Roy also offered their warm congratulations.

Valley Center Library Director becomes second Kansas librarian to earn new library degree

—by Shannon Roy Director of Local Library Development

Janice Sharp, the director of the Valley Center Library, became the second Kansas librarian to receive the new Library Services Certificate from the School of Library and Information Management at Emporia State University.

The Library Services Certificate Program is a new library education program that allows a librarian to earn a series of 12 hour undergraduate certifications. Janice earned the Generalist Certificate in the shortest possible period and is now planning to work on her Administrative Services Certificate. Janice had graduated from the three-year KPLACE Library Training Program in 1995 and has also sent one of her administrative staff through the KPLACE training.

Janice received her Library Services Certificate from Program Coordinator Rene Yaws at a Valley Center Library board meeting on July 17th. State Librarian Duane Johnson, Local Library Development Director Shannon Roy and South Central Library System Training Coordinator Nancy Malone added their congratulations on this remarkable achievement.

The library board members expressed their pleasure in having a talented and dedicated director. The board chair added that Janice Sharp's help would be critically important as the board began planning for an expansion to the attractive but overcrowded library.

Janice has been the Valley Center library director since 1992. She is known in the South Central Library System for her quiet competence, her creative children's programming and for her strong commitment to partnering with community organizations.

KAN-ED databases and the KSLC

A number of databases leased for the state of Kansas by KAN-ED are now available for remote access with the Kansas Library Card. See the article by Marc Galbraith elsewhere in this issue for details.

KLNB Meeting

The Kansas Library Network Board had its quarterly meeting at the Dodge City Community College Learning Resource Center on Thursday, August 28. The minutes will be available on Blue Skyways from http://www.skyways.org/KSL/KLNB/meetings.html very soon.

Western Trails Roundup

The IMLS-sponsored Western Trails digitization project is very near the end of its two-year grant period. A wrap-up conference with participant focus group sessions was held on September 4 at Denver University. I was pleased to report on Kansas's part of the project. Other representatives present from Kansas included Sarah Goodwin Thiel of the University of Kansas, Nancy Sherbert of the Kansas State Historical Society, and Dave Webb of the Kansas Heritage Center. Sarah and Dave each staffed a booth at the conference to demonstrate their project Web sites. KU's is entitled "Steaming West: Railway activity westward through Kansas, 1860-1890" (see http:// spencer.lib.ku.edu/exhibits/westerntrails/index.htm). The Heritage Center's is entitled "Dodge City Cattle Trails & Tales" (http://www.readinks.info/khc/). Other Kansas Western Trails partners include the Boot Hill Museum and the Wichita State University Department of Special Collections, and their sites will be up and running this fall.

KAN-ED databases up and running

—by Marc Galbraith Director, Research and Information Services

After many months of evaluating input from schools, colleges, universities, libraries and hospital representatives, KAN-ED has completed arrangements with several vendors to fulfill one of KAN-ED's primary missions: the delivery of high quality research databases that speak to the information needs of Kansas residents. This has truly been a collaborative effort from the initial development of the concept, to the public policy groundwork, to involvement of a wide variety of representatives in the planning for implementation and the process of database evaluation. Congratulations go out to the hundreds, if not thousands, of librarians and educators who participated in this effort to enhance the availability of educational resources for so many.

The databases now available include:

- World Book Online one of the leading online encyclopedia on the market. World Book Online includes all of the articles in the 22 volume printed edition and a great deal more.
- Gale's Custom Newspapers a bit of a misnomer in that the collection available via KAN-ED includes all of the newspapers offered by Gale. In all, more that 130 papers including the New York Times, L.A. Times, Washington Times, and many English-language foreign papers.
- HeritageQuest a database for both the neophyte and the experienced family researcher. Includes the complete U.S. Census from 1790 through 1930, as well as many other family history resources. Also includes corresponding Proquest indexes which allow searching by name, place of birth, age, ethnicity and other variables.
- Literature Resource Center Gale's premier online resource for literary information including a variety of Gale and non-Gale reference sources. Thousands of journals articles, critical essays, work overview/summary plots, links to authoritative web sites, author biographies and portraits. Covers classical, medieval, modern, children's literature, poetry and much more.
- Proquest Nursing Journals a full text database of over 400 leading nursing journals.

The much desired and sought after NewsBank collection of Kansas newspapers was, in the end, not licensed because of difficulties with securing remote access to some of the six Kansas and some of the seven major metro papers in the package.

Access

All of the databases are available via id/password access from the KanFind database page (http://www.skyways.org/library/databases.html) of Blue Skyways. The password has been distributed via a variety of listservs and is also available by calling 800/432-3919. The databases are also available via the Kansas Library Card (http://www.kslc.org/kslc/). All current and new cardholders do and will have access.

Access via IP address and other methodologies will be provided over the course of the next few weeks and months.

Kansas books

by Roy Bird Federal Projects Coordinator/Library Consultant

Planting Dreams Series, by Linda K. Hubalek. Order from: Butterfield Books, Inc., PO Box 407, Lindsborg, KS 67456-0407. 2001. Softcover, 5" x 9", $9.95 each.

Many Kansas readers and librarians are familiar with prolific author Linda K. Hubalek's earlier two series, Butter in the Well (4 books) and Trail of Thread (3 books), not to mention the years she owned and operated Book Kansas! In these short paperbacks, she has accurately portrayed pioneer life in southern Saline and northern McPherson county.

Hubalek has made a career of bringing to life the travails and triumphs of pioneering in the Smoky River Valley during the last half of the 1800s. Now she does so again, in the Planting Dreams series. Whereas many of the works about pioneering in Kansas begin with the pioneer's arrival on the unforgiving prairie, Hubalek traces her great grandmother from her home in Sweden in 1868 in Book 1, A Swedish Immigrant's Journey to America. It is striking in its description of sailing across the Atlantic. The second book, Homesteading on the Great Plains, describes the hard life and ultimate accomplishments of the first Swedish pioneers from 1869-1886. The final book, Life on the Changing Prairie, brings the family saga from one woman's view to a conclusion. Hubalek fictionalizes the missing portions of her genealogy, lightly spiced with family photos, to weave another enthralling story in three books. She is especially good at depicting the life of a farm wife, a portrait in words which did not change dramatically until the mechanization of the family farm in the 1920s.

Recommended for Kansas collections in school, public and academic libraries.

Kansas libraries.... 20 years ago

—by Bill Sowers Kansas Documents Librarian/Tech Support Librarian

Gleanings from Kansas Libraries, Issue #13, September, 1983

- The Hays Public Library underwent a week-long renovation project in August. Under the direction of Melanie Miller, librarian, about half of the library's 50,000 volumes were rearranged. The massive project involved many volunteers, including the Boy Scouts, members of the Friends of the Library group, staff members and other volunteers. Some books were taken to the basement and recently purchased books were added to the limited shelf space. Seating capacity for library users was more than doubled.
- In keeping with the tradition set by other agencies in the Statehouse, the State Library has now added a collection of photographs of all former state librarians to the - library's hallway. The 8" x 10" black and white framed photographs include all of the fourteen state librarians to date, and three of the four acting state librarians.

- Charles E. Sims, Sr., the twelfth state librarian who served from 1973 until January 1975, died of a heart attack in Topeka, August 8. He was 58.
- The State Library will shortly release a new publication, "The Handy Book for Kansas Public Librarians and Trustees." The 74-page book, compiled by the State Library's "official scribe," Allen Gardiner, is designed to cover the gamut of issues and items of concern to public librarians and board members.
